IMPETUS TO CAMPAIGN BEING GIVEN BY TWO MEETINGS TODAY

Republicans to Assemble First at County Seat, Then in Charleroi

FOSS AND TEMPLE COMING

Congressman From Illinois and Former Congressman From This District. With Congressman Crago, to be Speakers

Impetus will be given to the Republican campaign today in two big meetings, which have been arranged to take place at Washington and Charleroi. Charleroi gets the choice of time, the river valley rally having been called for this evening at 7:30 o'clock. Three of the best speakers that could be secured for a meeting of the kind will make the addresses at Washington and then be brought here in automobiles for the evening gathering, which will be at the Majestic theatre.

Congressman
GEORGE E. FOSS

Just who will preside at the Charleroi meeting is a question. Some of the details remain to be looked after. A band will play to arouse enthusiasm preceding the gathering.

Much interest is being manifested in the coming of George Edmund Foss, of Illinois, who has been called the "Legislative Builder of the American Navy." Mr. Foss is one of the most influential men in Congress.

Former Congressman Henry W. Temple of Washington and Congressman Thomas S. Crago of Waynesburg will complete the trio of speaking talent. The meeting is billed to start at 8 o'clock.

GOV. BRUMBAUGH WANTS MOVIE LAW ENFORCED

Governor Brumbaugh has addressed a letter to the heads of all departments of state government asking them to request all attaches of their offices to assist in the enforcement of the law governing moving pictures in Pennsylvania by promptly reporting every film displayed without state license. Similar request will be made of all state officers and district attorneys and other officers will be invited to help.

Allen of Charleroi had a narrow escape has become generally known. Miss Speers who was driving the Speers car had turned the machine and was started on the journey home when a large car approached on a cross-roads. It struck the Speers machine. However none of the occupants was hurt. The machine had to be brought into Charleroi by men from a garage.

NEW LAW WILL NOT INTERFERE

Gov. Brumbaugh and State Board of Education Decide Question of Labor

BOYS MAY RETURN TO WORK

Following a conference between Governor Brumbaugh, members of the State Board of Education, and others interested, an announcement was made in Philadelphia Monday that the new child labor law will not be allowed to interfere with children between 14 and 16 years of age who have already been granted working certificates and permitted to leave school. The question has been troubling the educational authorities generally.

School authorities recently put the matter up to Attorney General Brown for an opinion. While Mr. Brown has not yet given his views, it is said he will make announcement in a day or two to the effect that these children will not be required to return to school. Their forced return January 1 had been forecasted by the State Board of Education, which interpreted the new child labor law to that effect.

As the matter affects all Pennsylvania school communities, Governor Brumbaugh has taken a hand. H. E. Miles, chairman of the committee on industrial education of the National Association of Manufacturers, was authority for the statement that the Governor had interfered to prevent the State School Board's views being carried out, and that these children be not required to leave their employment.

YOUNG GROCERY BOYS DEFEAT HIGHWAYMEN

Malcolm Russell and John Breeza Held up Near Gallatin But Premonition of Affair Saves Them $70 of Their Company's Money

Highwaymen Saturday night holding up two young men driving the P. H. Butler grocery wagon from Danbury approached near Gallatin in getting from them $8.34 in a bag, but were outwitted in their efforts to secure $70 contained in a wallet in the possession of the drivers.

Malcolm Russell, aged 19 years was driving the wagon, and John Breeza, aged 16 years was his companion. Approaching Gallatin they recognized the possibility of a holdup. Breeza asked young Russell to hand him his wallet. This the driver and elder of the two young men did, and Breeza hid it in a pair of overalls on the seat. It contained $70 in bills of the company's money. A sack containing $8.34 was retained by Russell.

As feared the holdup occurred. They were delivering to a family by the name of Grass and had just left the wagon when three men appeared from shrubbery. One of them covered the boys with a gun and the others went through their pockets. The highwaymen got the bag. They did not touch the seat of the wagon. Threatening the boys with death if they told the men disappeared and no trace has yet been found of them.

ONE MAN IN SERIOUS SHAPE FROM BARROOM CUTTING AFFRAY

Monongahelian in Hospital Suffering From Severe Wounds Received Saturday Night.

John Uhlyar, aged 27 and married, is in a critical condition in the Memorial hospital at Monongahela as a result of a cutting affray in one of the Monongahela saloons Saturday night. Uhlyar was standing in the saloon when an unknown Italian came in and attacked him. After cutting him twice in the body, the unknown man turned and fled and no trace of his whereabouts has yet been found. Uhlyar was employed as a miner in the Manown mines at Manown. The affray is thought to be the result of former trouble between the two men.

PORTER'S OPENING IS THE TALK OF TOWN

H. Porter, Jewelers' Grand Opening, was the talk of the town. Every where you can hear folks talking about the man that has climbed from the small store with small stock at 534 to the big beautiful up-to-date store with the immense stock at the new location at 502 Fallowfield avenue.

Our only explanation for our big success in town is our doctrine. Treat the people right, together with up-to-date business methods. We wish to thank the Public for their good wishes. We were very happy to see such large crowds attend the opening.

This opening being our first attempt, we wish to announce that we expect to improve on all future openings which will take place in the Fall of every year hereafter.

While our Opening Days we just set aside to show folks around our new store, still we enjoyed a good advance Christmas business on those two days. We have laid aside hundreds of articles for Christmas delivery.

Shop early and avoid the disappointment of not finding exactly what you want at the last minute. H. Porter, Jeweler and Optician, 502 Fallowfield avenue, Charleroi. Pa. Bell phone 67-R. 112-41.

AUTO DRIVER KILLED; OTHERS HURT WHEN BIG CAR OVERTURNS

Sunday Accident at Brownsville Attended by Fatal Results—Blowout Causes Trouble.

Frank Movotney, aged 18, an automobile dealer of Brownsville, was instantly killed and Leo Kennedy, aged 20, and two unidentified foreigners were badly injured Sunday when the automobile in which they were riding from Brier Hill to Keister, near Brownsville upset. Movotney was driving the car up a slight grade when a front tire blew out. The car was heading for a telegraph pole and when Movotney made a quick turn, the automobile upset. Movotney was held by the steering wheel and the back of a seat caught his head when the machine toppled over.

DRUGS HIGH THE RETAILERS FIND

Hard to Get Prescription Filled Now at Anything Like Ordinary Price

PEROXIDE OFF THE MARKET?

Druggists and buyers of the various preparations which go into the making of prescriptions are confronted with still further rise of prices as the result of the European war which makes a siege of illness and the accompanying drug bill a luxury that few can afford.

For example, the price of quinine is ten times what it was formerly, so that a man who has depended upon this drug when threatened with a cold is undecided whether to suffer in patience or to go and mortgage the old homestead and seek relief.

Carbolic acid has risen 1,000 per cent, and permanganate of potash has advanced and is rapidly soaring to such heights that to say it is worth its weight in gold would be a weak figure of speech. Oil of wintergreen has doubled in value. Potassium bromide has gone up from 45 cents to $3.00 per pound. These drugs, which are standards in the compounding of prescriptions, with hundreds of other items are so high in price and with threatened advances still to come, that it is natural the druggists of the country are wondering what will ultimately become of the business.

The prescription that a year ago could be compounded for 40 cents is now on a similar standard worth one dollar. And finally peroxide of hydrogen has risen and risen until now notices have been sent out that it will go off the market entirely in sixty days. And then the "johnnies" will set up a long loud wail, for the peroxide "johnnies" will go out of existence also.

Rear of Old Williams' Feed Store Building is Damaged Somewhat by Fire

HOWEVER, LOSS IS NOT HIGH

Blaze is Controlled Within Period of About Fifteen Minutes After First Alarm is Sounded—Structure Owned by A. R. Mountsier.

Damage which would amount in the extreme to about $500 was wrought by fire Sunday afternoon at about 1 o'clock at what is known as the old Williams Feed store building on McKean avenue near Third street. The building is owned by A. R. Mountsier and is occupied by three or four families.

The flames originated from some sort of an explosion, though Chief J. M. Fleming has not yet ascertained of what nature.

The building is an old frame structure, surrounded by frame buildings, and consequently is in a dangerous spot. When the alarm was first turned in it was feared the building would go as well as several others adjoining, so rapidly did the flames spread.

The worst of the fire was in the rear of the building in apartments occupied by a family named Kreyer. They suffered considerable damage, while another family living in adjoining apartments lost considerable new furniture which they had just received Saturday.

The blaze looked bad from the beginning owing to the dense smoke which rolled from the windows and other apertures. The fire department found it necessary to use considerable water in controlling the fire. It took a brief 15 minutes to stop its progress and little longer to entirely extinguish it after the first alarm was sounded.

To the building probably $300 damage was wrought. To the furniture and household belongings of occupants probably another $200 damage was done.

AMERICAN POLITICS

The American political scene has improved considerably during recent years although it is still quite recently converted into something closely resembling the ancient heathen gods when human beings were thrown to the savage beasts whose natural ferocity had been intensified by protracted abstinence from food. It used to be a sorry spectacle; occasionally some unfortunate editor shows a decided reversion to the savage type.

Forty or fifty years ago, says the Altoona Tribune the citizen who got a place on a party ticket knew before the campaign began that he was in danger of losing his reputation. Many sensitive men, good citizens having within them the possibilities of effective and useful service absolutely refused to have anything to do with politics. They declared frankly that they lacked the nerve to undergo such an ordeal. Running the gauntlet under the cruel blows of a long line of savages would have involved far less torture.

Beginning with George Washington and coming down the line of our most successful statesmen, it would be impossible to mention one who was not assailed in the fiercest terms by his political foes. An effort was made to ruin Washington while the fate of the young republic hung trembling in the balance; Jefferson was held up to public ridicule as an infidel; Jackson was believed by many honest folks to be the enemy of American freedom Lincoln was stigmatized as a clown; Grant was a butcher; McKinley was the modern Napoleon. Other statesmen who failed to reach the presidency were scarcely less fortunate.

An Englishman who has long been a resident of the United States and a citizen, told the writer many years ago that when he chanced to read stray copies of American Newspapers which reached him in the old home he wondered what sort of people the Americans were, since they seemed to have formed the habit of nominating their criminals for the highest offices. He took the political diatribes that he read quite seriously and was amazed and puzzled over the apparent degeneracy of a great people. After he had been in this country a few years he discovered that Americans paid little attention to chronic abuse and misrepresentation of political candidates. It had become the habit of most of the newspapers to invent and print that sort of stuff but nobody believed a word of it.

Here and there one discovers a survivor of the old school of vindictive and denunciatory journalism. But it is even less effective now than it was in the former days, provoking little more than an occasional smile or a feeling of chagrin that a modern editor should adopt such primitive and barbarous weapons.

Republicanism must triumph next year. To that end it must also triumph this year. The country demands a change to true and tried principals. This is a dangerous period for experimental legislation of any sort, and what else is to be expected from the present administration, however worthy its individual components parts may be. Congress must be made Republican this year. Congressman Henry W. Temple must be returned from the Twenty-fourth district. He is one of the most capable men who ever served the district and a leader of ability in affairs of the state and nation. And he is a Republican, a believer in progressive Republicanism of a wholesome sort.

Just because we are a feeling of pity for the convicted criminal is no reason why we should let our sympathies run away with us. We need a man who has made a mistake and cast from society and want to hear him. We want to see him free, living decently, as a man should live. Our philanthropic impulse for the better of us and the first thing we do is we are eager in an effort to extricate this enemy of our country from the clutches of the law. We make a mistake. We are forgetful. We do not think upon the moment that this wretched outcast is sufficient that others criminally inclined may know and be warned. It is not so much that protection be furnished society, generally, as it is that a noteworthy example be set for others. A criminal leads others to crime. It never ceases. The only way to break his influence is to make him suffer for his crime. Society and humanity benefit. Let us be sympathetic but on a broader plan.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

There are fancier towns than our own little town, there are towns that are bigger than this, and the people who live in the tinier towns all the city excitement will miss. There are things you can see in the wealthier town that you can't in the town that is small, and yet up and down there is no other town after all. It may be that the street through the heart of our town isn't long, isn't wide, isn't straight, but the neighbors you know in our little town with a welcome will wait. In the glittering streets of the glittering town with its palace and pavement and trall, in the midst of the throng you'll frequently long for our own little town after all. If you live and work and trade in our town in spite of the fact that it's small, you'll find that the town—our own little town—is the best of a town after all. —From an Exchange

Robert S. Lovett, the president of the Union Pacific, tells this story: "Recklessness in finance doesn't pay—unless, indeed, it be the cautious kind of recklessness that Legier, the baker was noted for. "Legier, bent over his counter, was working away with his pencil and a piece of wrapping paper when Mrs. Liscum entered for a loaf of bread. "Noticing on the paper a lot of familiar names, Mrs. Liscum said: "What are you figuring there, Mr. Legier?" "Well ma'am," said Legier, I'm just putting down the names of all my friends that I can lick." "Is Harvey Liscum's name there?" asked Mrs. Liscum. "Yes," said the baker. "Yes I got it down." "Mrs. Liscum went home and told Harvey. He snatched his hat and hastened to the bakery. "Legier," he shouted, "is it true what my wife tells me—that I am on the list of the men that you can lick?" "Yes," said Legier calmly. "I've got you down Mr. Liscum." "Why you little shrimp," roared Liscum, "I could wipe up the floor with you! I could eat you alive!" "Are you sure you could?" said the baker. "You bet I'm sure!" said Liscum, shaking his fist in Legier's face. "Well, then," said the baker sadly, "I guess I'll cross you off the list."

Luke McLuke Says:
What doth it profit a man to attend a peace meeting and then go home about 2 a. m. and find his wife waiting up for him?

There are times a man starts things he can't finish. But the time he starts to make a fool of himself isn't one of them.

Maybe it is a good thing that so many men are poor writers. Good penwork would only make bad spelling look worse.

Of course being poor has its drawbacks, but you do not have to sit up at night and watch for burglars, and you do not have to soak your mail in the bathtub every morning to fool the neighbors who send you infernal mail.

The man who has to dig for a living will think of the dignity of labor.

And what has become of the old fashioned man who, when he sat down to the table, tucked his napkin in his collar as if he were preparing to shave?

It is well understood that a man is an onery pup and that a woman is a defenseless creature. But it is a fact, nevertheless, that when a man and a married woman strike up a flirtation the man seldom starts the flirtation.

There are a lot of men in the world who imagine that a toothbrush is something that is used exclusively for brushing a woman's face.

It was at a laymen's meeting, held in connection with the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the American board of commissioners for foreign missions, the first foreign missionary society in North America. From 3 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon a large part of the time was spent in prayer. During the evening session one address was given, followed by discussion concerning the necessity of enlisting the laymen of all the

A series of resolutions was passed calling into existence a committee of twenty-five or more representative laymen "to consult with the secretaries of the various foreign missionary boards with reference, first, to the conduct of a campaign of education among laymen to interest them more largely in missions; second, to the devising of a comprehensive plan for the evangelization of the world in this generation; third, to endeavor to send a commission of fifty or more laymen to visit the mission fields and report their findings to the church at home."

A national missionary campaign was conducted throughout the United States during the winter of 1909-10, including conventions in seventy-five of the leading cities. These conventions were attended by an aggregate of about 75,000 registered delegates. The culminating feature of this campaign was a national missionary congress held at Chicago May 3-6, 1911, attended by over 4,000 delegates. The proceedings of this congress are published in an attractive volume entitled "Men's National Missionary Congress."

Best Citizens of State and Nation Will Vote "YES" On Woman Suffrage

1—President Wilson. 2—Theodore Roosevelt. 3—Samuel W. Pennypacker. 4—William E. Stone. 5—Gov. Brumbaugh. 6—Dr. John Price Jackson. 7—Dr. Nathan Schaeffer. 8—James Scarlett. 9—Vance McCormick. 10—Dimmer Beaber.

No better proof of the value of woman suffrage to the nation at large and the States in particular can be found than in the fact that virtually every representative man in this country has openly endorsed it and urged the voters of Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey and Massachusetts to approve the suffrage amendments that are to be voted on in these States at the polls this year.

Every political party, every science and profession, every rank of labor and every creed is represented in the noteworthy list of men who want to see the benefits of the franchise extended to women. To give in full the names of all the prominent men who are on this list would fill almost an entire newspaper. Some conception of the type of American citizens who favor woman suffrage may be gleaned, however, from the following summary of acknowledged suffragists:

President Wilson, and his entire cabinet, with the exception of Secretary of State Lansing, who has no vote this year and who accordingly has not deemed it proper to express his views on the subject; Governor Martin C. Brumbaugh, former President Roosevelt, Vance C. McCormick, former Governors Pennypacker and Stone, State Commissioner of Labor and Industry John Price Jackson, President John P. White of the United Mine Workers of America, State Superintendent of Public Instruction Nathan C. Schaeffer, former Judge Dimmer Beaber, James H. Maurer, President Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, Thomas A. Edison, James Scarlett, Dr. Russell H. Conwell and Dr. John A. Brashear who was recently nominated by editors throughout the State as Pennsylvania's greatest citizen.

In contrast to this array of America's and Pennsylvania's best citizens it is interesting to note that the most widely quoted opponent to woman suffrage in Pennsylvania during the past two weeks has been Neil Bonner, president of the National Liquor Dealers Association. Mr. Bonner expressed his position at the convention of New Jersey saloon keepers in Atlantic City on October 25th, when he said:

"Woodrow Wilson, President of this country, has declared that he proposes to vote to give the ballot to women. I want to say to you that I, president of the Retail Liquor Dealers of the country, intend to vote against giving women the ballot."

Right on the heels of Mr. Bonner's anti-suffrage declaration, former President Theodore Roosevelt issued a statement endorsing Votes for Women in which he said:

"Vice and crime are conducted by a portion of the population in which there are ten men to one woman. And when you see men who make a business of that which is foul and base rallying against a cause, you may be convinced that it is precisely good common sense to stick to that cause. Mind you, I don't believe that getting Votes for Women will cure all our ills, but I give it as my deliberate and careful judgment that in every State where suffrage has been tried there has been, so far as I know, no single instance where it has produced damage. And there has been case after case where it has worked to the universal betterment of social and civic conditions."

The comments which other famous Americans have recently made on woman suffrage are as follows:

Thomas A. Edison, the country's foremost inventor—"Every woman in this country is going to have the vote. That is certain."

President Wilson—"I intend to vote for woman suffrage in New Jersey because I believe that the time has come to extend that privilege and responsibility to the women of the State."

"I think that New Jersey will be greatly benefited by this change," Governor Brumbaugh—"I believe women in Pennsylvania will be given the right to vote at the next election. I believe they should be given the ballot."

Vance C. McCormick—"Justice demands equal rights for women. There can be no argument against this position. The complete triumph of the cause cannot be far distant and I shall be glad to see Pennsylvania in line with those States where women have equal rights with men."

Former Governor Pennypacker—"I propose to vote for woman suffrage because it seems to me to be only just to the women that they should have the means of protecting themselves and such property as they may possess."

Former Governor Stone—"Voting is no more masculine than feminine. Voting is not degrading except as the voter degrades it. Women are not 'too refined' to vote. Their voices would bring the ballot to a higher state of refinement and it surely needs it."

Mr. James H. Maurer, President Pennsylvania Federation of Labor—"Working women feel most keenly the necessity for the right of franchise. Woman cannot have equal power with men in the industrial struggle while they are classified with idiots and irresponsibles in political affairs. It is up to the working men of Pennsylvania to give them that power this year by voting 'Yes' on the suffrage amendment on Election Day."

Dr. John Price Jackson—"Changed conditions in the industrial world have made it more and more necessary that women shall have greater power in the control of conditions that affect their lives."

endorsed woman suffrage. Personally I heartily concur in their action on this all important issue."

James Scarlett—"In the women of Pennsylvania we have our greatest reservoir of moral strength. Woman suffrage will bring this force in full play for the benefit of all and it is bound to improve every aspect of politics."

Former Judge Dimmer Beaber—"In no logical way can the right to vote be a matter of sex. If a woman pays taxes she should vote on how the money is spent. The anus position is untenable. It is not a privilege we are extending to women, but a right. If such an argument is used against women it must also be used against men."

Dr. Nathan C. Schaeffer, State Superintendent of Public Instruction—"When the opportunity comes to vote on woman suffrage in Pennsylvania I will embrace it. I have been in States where women have the vote and I want it in Pennsylvania."

Dr. John A. Brashear—"During the life of my wife I always desired that she should have the same privileges of citizenship that I was enjoying, and in November I shall certainly vote so the wives of other men shall have the privilege I wished for my own."

The fact that all of these prominent champions of woman suffrage are men who give the most careful and deliberate thought to a subject before making any comment upon it makes their endorsement of suffrage more valuable to the cause than almost any other factor. The women of Pennsylvania are proud to have the support of these men and are grateful to them for tendering it as their example will undoubtedly influence thousands of other thinking citizens in this State to vote favorably on the suffrage amendment on November 2nd.

MONESSEN ITALIAN MUCH WANTED MAN

Pool Room Owner Apprehended by Pittsburgh Detectives for Highway Robbery—Implicated by Men About To Undergo Trial for Murder.

Tony Longo, proprietor of the pool room on Donora avenue between Third and Fourth streets, Monessen is under arrest on information received from Pittsburgh headquarters, having been taken to that city to answer charges of highway robbery. He is said to be the last member of an alleged "blackhand" gang which for years terrorized Italians in Pittsburgh's "Little Italy." His arrest came about through the usual procedure of a man awaiting trial on a charge of murder swearing out a warrant against him. The warrant also named two dead men as implicated in the holdup.

The arrest of Longo followed a confession which the city detectives say was made by Frank Buzumato, who was arrested in Butte, Mont., several months ago charged with the murder of Nicholas Dagastino at Clayway and Chatham street, Pittsburgh. Following the shooting, the police say Buzumato was secreted by friends in Little Italy until an opportunity was presented for escape.

Tony Longo also disappeared the night Dagastino was murdered. A few months after the killing of Dagastino, another member of the gang, known to the police as James Al-bruzzes, was murdered near Greensburg.

When Buzumato was returned to Pittsburgh, police say he maintained he shot Dagastino in self defense. He declares two men attacked him and robbed him of $85 and his gold watch. He said, according to the police, that he got the "drop" on Dagastino, and killed him in a quarrel. Through his attorneys and the detectives, Buzumato gave the whole story to the district attorney, it is said. Then followed the unusual proceeding of an order being issued taking Buzumato into court where informations were made against Longo and the two dead men. The warrants were issued promptly and Detectives Gabriel Di Forge and Edward Dunn came to Monessen and arrested Longo. He was taken to Central police station.

COMPLAINTS HEARD OF MONESSEN ASSESSMENTS

People of Second Ward in Neighboring Town Kicking on High Valuations—Pay 30 Mills on every Dollar of Valuation Now.

Monessen people are up in arms over the boosting of property valuations in certain sections of the town. The Independent makes its protests in the following manner:

People of the Second ward of the borough of Monessen are being confronted with higher assessments. The tax booster is on the job and valuations are being raised. This is the triennial assessment period and the assessors of the town are supposed to make an assessment affecting all properties. The taxes in the borough of Monessen are naturally high on account of the vast improvements they have been forced to make in a short time.

At present state, county, school and borough taxes amount to thirty mills on every dollar of the assessed value of property. The school tax duplicate alone amounts to more than ninety thousand dollars annually. There is no demand for value boosting in the borough of Monessen. There is no reason why the people of the Second Ward should be made to suffer penalties. The school board and the council have never raised any objection to the present values. The tax duplicate has been sufficient to meet the requirements for public expenditures and the millage has been fixed upon present values. To raise the valuation of Monessen inflicts a hardship upon the Monessen taxpayers which does not affect other sections of the county. Property owners believe that the taxes are simply high.

ONE BAD PASS LOSES CHARLEROI HIGH GAME

Local Team Goes Down to Defeat 7 To 0 On Home Grounds—Game Decided First Few Minutes of Play—Hospital Candidates Play Well.

One wild heave—that, speaking generally, and a little slowness of movement in critical moments by a squad much bruised and battered from the terrific combat a week previous, lost Charleroi high school its game with Uniontown high school Saturday afternoon on the local field, with the score of 7 to 0. Yet the game was a good one and showed to observing persons the strength of the high school eleven when it is in good playing form.

The wild heave occurred after Uniontown had backed Charleroi a short distance from the center of the field shortly after the first kickoff. Charleroi claimed the ball, after forcing Uniontown to kick, onslaught when the disastrous performance came. Capt. Lowstuter backed away from the line to receive the pigskin for a kick. Something caused the ball to twist unmercifully over his head and to the side. Before the bounding oval could be recovered Uniontown had broken through, and Charleroi had lost a plain 25 yards. Charleroi lost the ball, and after this disheartening occurrence was unable to stop the plunging Fayette countians from dashing on over the line. Chuck made the touchdown. Burd kicked.

Outside of just that one unfortunate affair the game was a fairly good one, though marred to some extent by fumbles. Straight football was attempted by both teams. Once toward the latter part of the last quarter Capt. Lowstuter seized the ball from Uniontown on a long forward pass and weaved his crooked course through a gauntlet of tackles for a gain of 20 yards. This was one of the prettiest plays of the game. Burd, the dashing Uniontown fullback made the most consistent gains of Uniontown's force.

Charleroi's strongest point was in its forward passes, but even these were stopped after a time. Both Uniontown and Charleroi lines held well and neither seemed to have much advantage.

The hottest part of the struggle and the part where Charleroi exhibited the greatest brilliancy was in the latter stages of the struggle. Still the necessary gains were lacking.

One of the discouraging features with the Charleroi team was the fact that at least two of the most dependable backfield men were nearly unable to play. Both Miksch and Lynn Lowstuter were on the hospital list, yet both played and really did good work. Vernon Eagye took Miksch's place in the first part of the struggle and did well. Toward the last of the game he substituted for Lynn Lowstuter and showed much form.

At least Charleroi did one thing Saturday it proved the line. The Charleroi line did some good, old-fashioned stonewall holding that was pretty to see. The ends worked well in getting down under punts. The backfield men displayed their proper form in several runs. Lineup:

RAY PUTS SCHULTZ TO SLEEP IN THE SECOND

Pennsylvania Featherweight Champion Retains His Title—Four Knockouts in Four Bouts at the Rink—W. D. Riley Referees.

Four bouts, four knockouts—this tells in brief the story of one of the best boxing shows presented at the skating rink in weeks or months Saturday night. The final was between Johnny Ray of Pittsburgh and Battling Schultz of Monessen, a fighter who of late has gained considerable of a reputation in the featherweight class. Ray laid Schultz low in the latter part of the second round.

The first bout was between McGinnis of Roscoe and Sapotis of Donora. The Donora battler captured this bout in the third round by a knockout.

Johnny Todd of Donora and Tarey Andrews of Charleroi made things lively in the second bout. Todd outclassed Andrews all the way through, and ended the whole affair by sending him down for the count in the third.

In the third mill Young Jones and Johnny Cooper, both of Monessen, fought a fast semi-final. Clinches were numerous. The battle proved an interesting one as long as it lasted, which was only two rounds, Cooper landing an uppercut to the jaw which put Jones to sleep.

Schultz led the fighting in the first round of the final. Toward the end of the round both landed some good stiff punches. Ray felt out Schultz during the first. In the second he started his good work, using the science that had won him the Pennsylvania featherweight championship. Schultz first went down for a count of five, then toward the end of the round was put to sleep good and proper by a hard punch to the jaw.

An exceptionally good crowd viewed the show, numbering about 500. W. D. Riley of Monessen was the referee for all bouts.

LIVELY INTEREST IN THE P. H. C. CONTEST

Charleroi Circle Taking Great Interest in Fight for Prize—P. H. C. Booster Published.

Lively interest in the great contest for members is being aroused. The first issue of the P. H. C. Booster published in the interests of the members living in the Monongahela valley has been read with great interest, and from the enthusiasm which is being aroused it is beginning to look as if Charleroi would win the first prize. Eleven candidates have been initiated and twelve await initiation. The standing of the teams is as follows: Gold team, 4275 points; white team, 2220; and Lock 4, 1670. As the Gold team has the most points, the gold flag displaces the white flag, and will be displayed in the lodge room until another team's flag takes its place. The gold team will entertain Friday October 29; and a fitting Hallowe'en celebration is anticipated. Dr. H. J. Repman was present at the meeting on Friday and delivered an interesting address on "Child Welfare." This was much appreciated by the members.
